

CONCORDANȚA NUMELOR PROPRII

Concordanța numelor proprii prezente în Sfânta Scriptură este un instrument de lucru necesar nu numai teologilor, bibliștilor în special, ci și filologilor sau lingviștilor, precum și oricărui intelectual preocupat de verbul divin. În cazul de față, această concordanță devine un aparat complementar al indicelui lexical, după cum ea este complementul obligatoriu unui indice tematic al Bibliei.

Realizarea concordanței biblice pentru Vulgata presupune anumite dificultăți, inerente acestei versiuni specifice a Bibliei. Dacă Noul Testament nu ridică probleme deosebite, pentru că edițiile notabile ale Scripturii (Vulgata, King James, edițiile grecești) au preluat ca atare recenzia așa numitului „text majoritar”, Vechiul Testament prezintă diferențe notabile, atât de la o versiune la alta, cât și de la o recenzie biblică la alta.

Septuaginta, bazată pe canonul alexandrin, are o cantitate de informație biblică superioară textului masoretic, bazat pe canonul ebraic, în plus această informație este arhitecturată altfel decât în textul masoretic, uneori chiar în cărțile biblice comune. Un exemplu cunoscut este cel al Cărții lui Ieremia.

Problema se adâncește chiar în cadrul celor două Biblii creștine. Diferitele recenzii ale Septuagintei (Alexandrina, Aquila, Theodotion, Simmachus, Hexapla, Heptapla, Lucian) prezintă diferențe unele unele față de altele, sensibile pentru bibliștii avizați, dar și pentru iubitorii Scripturii. Vulgata a cunoscut și ea diferite recenzii, începând cu cea a Sfântului Ieronim, continuând cu Grigore cel Mare, Cassiodor, Beda Venerabilul, Alcuin, generându-se astfel familii de manuscrise. Ediția tipizată și oficială a Vulgatei, sixto-clementina, se bazează în principal pe Codex Caraffa, considerat ca cel mai acribic dintre diferitele recenzii accesibile la finele secolului al XVI-lea. O asemenea ediție oficială a stat la baza traducerii episcopului blăjean Petru Pavel Aaron și a celor 6 colaboratori ai săi: Biblia Sacra, Venetiis apud Nicolaum Pezzana, MDCLXXX.

Vulgata, la rândul ei, prezintă un material biblic similar atât textului masoretic, cât și Septuagintei. De accentuat: similar dar nu identic, întrucât, chiar și în cadrul cărților comune cu ale celorlalte versiuni, observăm diferențe sensibile în ceea ce privește arhitecturarea informației biblice, dar și compoziția materialului biblic. Cărțile comune cu textul masoretic (protocanonicele) sunt mai fidele acestuia în cazul Vulgatei decât în cazul Septuagintei, de pildă informația biblică din Cartea Facerii, din Exod, din Ieremia. Arhitectura psalmilor este mai apropiată de cea a Septuagintei decât cea masoretică.

În cazul cărților deuterocanonice comune cu Septuaginta, apar diferențe notabile de informație și dispoziție a materialului biblic, cum se întâmplă în Tobit, Iudith, Eclesiasticul (Înțelepciunea lui Isus Sirah), la care Ieronim a dat o traducere după versiunile aramaice și nu după versiunile grecești (alexandrine). În aceleși cărți biblice comune, Vulgata se diferențiază și în ceea ce privește numerotarea versetelor din capitole, astfel încât orientarea pe text presupune o atenție sporită din partea celui ce caută o referință biblică. Astfel, concordanțele biblice realizate pentru Septuaginta sau pentru Textul Masoretic au doar o valoare orientativă pentru Vulgata, ele nefiind în un instrument precis de lucru.

Concordanța de față indică clasele numelor proprii întâlnite în manuscrisul biblic tradus de Petru Pavel Aron și colaboratorii săi (Vechiul Testament și Evangheliile). Cu alte cuvinte, în cazul aceluiași nume purtat de mai multe personaje biblice, se indică doar numele respectiv, fără identificarea nominalizațiilor, rostul concordanței fiind unul formal, de recunoaștere. Numele biblice sunt indicate cu toate variantele ortografice apărute în text. În paranteză ele se dau în forma în care sunt accesibile și cunoscute astăzi cititorului român, din diverse ediții la zi ale Bibliei, pentru ca acest cititor să poată personaliza numele respective, în pofida diferențelor de formă dintre Vulgata de la Blaj și textele biblice circulante. Toate numele sunt însoțite de siglele a (antroponim), h (hieronim), t (toponim) sau a, t (antroponime cu valoare toponimică), ultimul caz provenind din specificitatea limbii ebraice (de pildă sintagma „fiii lui Iuda, fiii lui Israel” indicând fie descendenții celor doi patriarhi, fie locuitorii celor două regate ebraice). Urmează specificarea locului din textul biblic unde apar numele proprii, în ordinea cărților din Vulgata, cu precizarea capitolelor și versetelor aferente. O listă de abrevieri este dată la sfârșitul acestei note, pentru facilitarea orientării cititorului. Lista abrevierilor de la concordanțe este una aparte de cea folosită la celelalte compartimente ale ediției, indicată în Notă asupra ediției, deoarece aici s-a operat cu surse diverse, cu Biblii diverse, care reclamă o abreviere pertinentă fiecăreia în parte.

Numele biblice din paranteze, adică cele cunoscute omului zilelor noastre, reflectă evoluția formei istorică a traducerilor spre o formă cât mai apropiată de originalul ebraic. Pentru fixarea formei contemporane s-a folosit Biblia Sfântului Sinod al Bisericii Ortodoxe Române, așa cum a fost ea stabilită în ediția de la 1968 și continuată în cele ulterioare, în paralel cu traducerea lui Dumitru Cornilescu, pe departe cea mai populară ediție românească a Scripturii, chiar dacă incompletă sub raportul informației biblice în comparație cu Vulgata și Septuaginta. Studiul monografic al lui Alexandru Măianu, Viața și lucrarea lui Dumitru Cornilescu, traducătorul Bibliei în limba română, București, 1995, estimează tirajul ediției Cornilescu, până în anul 1981, la 5.000.000 de exemplare, imens față de cele câteva sute de mii pe care ediția Sfântului Sinod le are până în momentul de față.

În cazul în care paranteza lipsește, numele propriu este comun tuturor recenziilor românești și se va lectura ca atare. Când sunt două nume în paranteză, primul este cel din ediția sinodală iar al doilea după traducerea Cornilescu. Atunci când survin trei sau mai multe nume în paranteză, este vorba de variantele diferite ale aceluiași nume în cadru celor două traduceri. În cărțile deuterocanonice sau anagosciomena (bune de citit; 3 Ezdra, 4 Ezdra) există sensibile diferențe între recenzia alexandrină și cea latină (3 Ezdra).¹

Caracteristic pentru Vulgata de la Blaj, în ce privește numele proprii, este varietatea textuală frecventă pentru același nume, ce de exemplu Ruvim, Ruvim pentru Ruben; Israil, Izrail pentru Israel; Ieremoth, Ierimofth, Ierimoth pentru Ierimoth etc. Motivele acestei varietăți sunt multiple:

1. Autorii versiunii românești diferă între ei sub raport ortografic, alfabetul chirilic, prin fonetismul său aproape perfect, fiind extrem de convenabil pentru transcrierea pronunției specifice a fiecărui traducător. Lipsa unui sistem ortografic prestabilit, a unei metodologii comune în transliterarea numelor proprii, au favorizat desigur diversitatea ortografică.

2. Instruirea diferită a traducătorilor a putut constitui un alt factor favorizant pentru apariția varietății ortografice. Unii traducători au avut și o cultură biblică slavonă, fapt care ar explica th prin thita chirilic și ulterior prin consonanticul ft (ex. Ierimoth, Ierimofth).

3. Pronunția diferită a fiecărui traducător. Chiar dacă proveneau din arii geografice învecinate, rostirea curentă a traducătorilor putea avea variațiuni de la persoană la persoană. Scriind în românește cu ajutorul alfabetului chirilic, în lipsa unui sistem ortografic unitar, traducătorii au transcris numele biblice așa cum auziseră pronunțate ei înșiși.

4. Alfabetul chirilic în varianta ardeleană nu a cunoscut o codificare clasică de felul celei din Moldo-Valahia. La data traducerii Vulgatei (1760 – 1761), acest alfabet se afla aici într-un declin accelerat, din cauza culturii și înclinațiilor latinizante ale intelectualilor greco-catolici, dătorii de ton în cultura din Transilvania. Foarte curând, traducătorii și discipolii lor vor începe lupta efectivă pentru scoaterea slovelor din scrierea românească. În această situație, textul Bibliei Vulgate reflectă un stadiu crepuscular al alfabetului chirilic, criză prin prisma căreia sunt explicabile multe inconsecvențe ortografice din text.

5. Traducătorii au fost legați și de spațiul biblic informațional precedent activității lor. Biblia de la București (1688) beneficia încă de un prestigiu netăgăduit. Această Biblie, circulantă atunci, a putut impune varianta lecturii neogrecești/slavone a numelor biblice. Numele biblice pronunțate prin prisma lecturii neogrecești/slavone s-au încetățenit puternic în cultura religioasă a epocii, orice modificare în acest sens putând fi percepută ca o inovație periculoasă, ca un atentat confesional. Predilecția pentru forme ca Veniamin, Vartolomeiu, Gavriil, Efrem, Iosue, Isaie, Irimie, Ieremie, Asriil reflectă și o puternică, sufocantă, coerție culturală.

Numele autentice au prezentat o dificultate deosebită pentru toți traducătorii limbilor clasice, din cauza anumitor sunete specifice (siflante, aspirate, guturale). Dacă o consoană de tipul ʃ putea fi redată în greacă sau latină prin ts sau tz, o consoană de tip ʒ nu putea fi reprodusă în alfabetul grec sau latin. Analog s-a petrecut cu anumite guturale. Astfel traducătorii Septuagintei au fost siliți adesea să adapteze sau să traducă numele ebraice în limba greacă, procedeu urmat și de Ieronim.

Traducătorii români din sec. XVIII au cunoscut astfel forma numelor ebraice prin interesul transliterărilor sau al traducerilor grecești, latinești sau slavone.

Câteva exemple sunt concludente:

Ruben sau Reuben, patriarh biblic (Fac. 29: 32; Ieș. 1: 2, Num. 1: 5 etc.) este ortografiat în ebraică prin literele: roș, alef, vav, beth, nun (רובן). În greacă este ortografiat prin rho, omicron, ypsilon, beta, eta, ny (Ροῦβην). Poate fi astfel lecturat Ruben sau Ruvim, în funcție de opțiunea erasmiană sau de cea reuchliniană a lecturii. În neogreacă este citit Ruvim, cum de altfel îl transcrie și Biblia de la București, cu varianta Ruvim. Aceleași variante folosite de Biblia lui Șerban se regăsesc și în manuscrisul lui Petru Pavel Aron. Vulgata preferă lectura Ruben.

Numele patriarhului biblic Așer (fac. 30: 13, Num. 1: 13 etc.) este ortografiat în ebraică cu alef, șin, roș (אשר). În greaca Septuagintei cu alfa, sigma, eta, rho (Ασηρ). Vulgata optează pentru Aser. Biblia de la București îl ortografiază Asir iar autorii traducerii Vulgatei de la Blaj vor oscila între Asir, Aser sau Assir.

Un caz mai complicat îl reprezintă numele patriarhului Beniamin (Fac. 35: 18, 43: 14, 16, 29 etc.).

Numele Beniamin („Fiul [mâinii] drepte”) este ortografiat în ebraică: beth, nun, iod, mem, iod, nun (בנימין). În greacă: beta, epsilon, ny, iota, alfa, my, iota, ny (Βενιαμιν). Vulgata transcrie Beniamin, Biblia de la București Veniamin, formă preferată și de P. P. Aron.

Apartenența la tribul lui Beniamin a cauzat dificultăți de traducere atât traducătorilor greci, cât și celor latini; astfel beniamitul sau beniamitiții din Jud. 3: 15, 19: 16 sunt traduși în Septuaginta fiul lui Iemoni la prima poziție, și fiii lui Veniamin (formă corectă) la a doua, forme preluate ca atare și de Biblia de la București. Vulgata traduce în ambele cazuri fiul, fiii lui Iemini, formă preluată și de traducătorii blăjeni.

Un caz analog îl avem în 1 Reg. 9: 1, unde sunt înșiruți: Beniamin, Chiș, Abiel, Zeror, Bechorath, Afiah beniamitul (în textul masoretic). Septuaginta îi prezintă ca Veniamin, Chis, Aviil, Iared, Vahir, Afec andros Ieminaion, nume redade de Biblia de la 1688 prin Veniamin, Chis, Eviil, Iared, Vahir, „Afec fiu de om emeniu”. Vulgata îi redă ca Beniamin, Cis, Abiel, Seror, Bechorath, Afia fiul bărbatului Iemini, în timp ce traducerea Vulgatei de la Blaj îi înșiră pe Veniamin, Chis, Aviil, Serorf, Vehorath, Afia fiulu omului Iemini. Același caz este întâlnit și în 1 Reg. 9: 21.

Biblicul Esau (Fac. 33: 15), ortografiat în ebraică prin ain, sin, vav (עסו), în grecește prin eta, sigma, alfa, ypsilon (Ἔσῶν), este transcris în Vulgata Esau, în timp ce Biblia de la București preferă forma Isaf iar blăjenii optează pentru forma Isav, dar și Esav (Ios. 15: 3).

Patriarhul Manase devine în Septuagintă Manassi (cu un eta final – η), Biblia lui Șerban preluând prompt forma Manasi, în timp ce Vulgata va prefera Manasse, modificat de traducătorii blăjeni în Manasiie (Fac. 48: 13), Manasse (Fac. 48: 14), Manasie (Fac. 48: 17).

Localitatea biblică Beer-Șeba devine pentru evreii alexandrini Virsavie (unde vocala ī îl reprezintă pe grecul eta – η), formă preluată și de Biblia de la București, în timp ce Ieronim o face cunoscută ca Bersabee (ex. 2 Cron. 19: 4, 24: 1), tradusă la Blaj ca Versavia.

Judecătorul Samuel (ortografiat de alexandrini Samouil (Σάμουηλ) – cu eta – și de Vulgată Samuel) va fi făcut cunoscut de Biblia lui Șerban ca Samuil, în timp ce blăjenii vor oscila între Samoil (1 Reg. 9: 14) sau Samuil (1 Reg. 9: 15). Alteori aceeași formă poate indica trei persoane biblice diferite: Iov (Iov, Iașub) în Fac. 46: 13, (Ioab) în 3 Ezd. 8: 38 sau Iov, protagonistul cărții biblice omonime.

O altă problemă a fost cauzată de posibilitatea declinării numelor proprii, în greacă și în latină, în funcție de cazurile gramaticale. O asemenea situație ne este sugerată și în traducerea blăjeană, în care Mordehai / Mardoheu, unchiul Esterei, apare în formele Marhoheu, Mardohee, Mardoheul, iar influențele personaje Meșulam din Cartea Cronicilor și din perioada stăpânirii persane apar cu formele: Mosolam, Mosollam, Mosolamul.

În textul masoretic sufixele -im și -oth sugerează cazul substantivelor pluralele masculine, respectiv feminine. Or, atât formele grecești cât și cele latinești arareori indică acest fapt. Astfel forma Caftorit (Caftorim) (Fac. 10: 14) este indicată în majoritatea traducerilor (inclusiv cele românești) ca un antroponim. Forma nu indică decât pluralul lui Caftor (sugerând fie descendenții lui Caftor, fie locuitorii din Caftor / Creta). Analog pentru forma Ludit (Ludim) din Fac. 10: 13. Un caz notoriu, încetățenit și în viața cotidiană, este constituit de heruvim. Se folosește curent pluralul pleonastic heruvimi, forma heruvim indicând deja pluralul ebraic al herub-ului, o categorie angelică. Or, traducerea viziunilor angelice, cu precădere cele din Cartea profetului Ezechiel, folosește forma heruvim la singular. Aceste dificultăți au constituit piedici reale pentru toți cei care au exercitat un pionierat în traducerile biblice în afara spațiului lingvistic semitic. Nici traducătorii Vulgatei de la Blajul nu au putut face excepție.

Dificultățile traducerii exacte a unui text ebraic în greacă sau latină, prezența mai multor traducători, fiecare având un impuls ortografic propriu, lipsa unei metodologii unitare, prestigiul spiritual și cultural al unei ediții precedente a Scripturii (Biblia de la București), iată pe scurt, motivele apariției mai multor variante, nu doar în cadrul unei clase onomastice, ci și în cazul unui anumit personaj sau toponim biblic.

Concordanța numelor proprii biblice, pentru un anumit tip de versiune (masoretică, septuagintică, Vulgata), impune consultarea concordanțelor realizate pentru celelalte versiuni. Astfel, ea devine un argument pentru complementaritatea versiunilor, întreaga informație biblică fiind oferită prin acceptarea simultană, concomitentă, a versiunilor principale. Textul septuagintic este complementar celui masoretic, iar Vulgata este complementară celorlalte două. Postularea unei singure versiuni, prin excluderea celorlalte (caz specific protestantismului) păcătuiește metafizic prin reducionism.

Un asemenea pericol, cu toate consecințele lui, a fost conștientizat de Episcopul Petru Pavel Aron și de colaboratorii săi, iar evitarea acestuia a constituit unul din imboldurile intime în realizarea traducerii românești a Vulgatei.²
